BELLURGAN WIN BUSINESS EXCELLENCE AWARD

NOVEMBER 2008

LOCAL RECOGNITION FOR FAMILY RUN COMPANY

The importance of being recognized locally was highlighted by Suzanne Carroll, Managing director of Bellurgan Precision Engineering. As she was presented with the Dundalk chamber of commerce Business Excellence Award.

She noted that over the past 30 years, the family-run company had won many awards, with employees winning the national apprentice awards and representing Ireland in the world Skills Olympics as well as industry awards.

However, she said it was a "nice feeling" to be among the good company of those nominated for the business Excellence awards. We have been nominated for a number of national awards such as the Ulster Bank and Irish independent Business awards but this is the first time we have ever been nominated for something locally. And she noted it was good to celebrate success in these tough economic times, when even her 6 year old daughter was asking what does doom and gloom mean.

It was Suzanne's father, Barney Carroll who founded Bellurgan precision Engineering in 1978. He identified a gap in the market for a machine spare parts supplier to local manufactures and in particular, to the growing number of US multi-nationals establishing a presence in the north east.

Today the company employs over 50 skilled workers at their Bellurgan facility, producing components for clients in the Medical, Electronic, Aerospace and Automotive industries. Their long established ethos of engineering excellence and partnership means that they now supply many of the leading companies across the globe
